

Thursday, 16th July
Sardines

A game of hiding and cunning.....

This game can be played indoors or out.

Instead of all players hiding and there being one seeker as in Hide and Seek, in this game there is one hider and everyone else has to find him/her.

One hider is chosen. All the other players shut and cover their eyes with their hands and count to 100. The “hider” goes off to find a sneaky spot to hide. On the count of 100 all the other players go off to find the hider. They must not go together. When one of them does find the hider, he or she has to make sure that none of the other seekers are looking as he/she then has to hide in the same place with the hider!

This continues until all the seekers bar one is hiding.....can you see where the name comes from?! What a squash!

inSpire

